- Some units only: Murdoch campus (external) (no new admissions from 2015 at this location for first-year commencing students)

Course Codes: B1284 B1284A

This major provides students with practical reporting, writing and producing skills in journalism and it investigates the ethical, legal and cultural contexts of the media. The major gives students the opportunity to work in an online newsroom. Students learn about the news media industry and about the influence of journalism on society. As part of the Communication degree, students also learn about media audiences and public opinion.

Admission Requirements (Onshore):

As per normal undergraduate admission requirements.

Restriction: Enrolment is subject to restriction due to constraints on unit enrolments.

Course Structure - 72 credit points

Units in this structure may no longer be available at all course locations and, where appropriate, alternative units have been provided. Students are required to satisfy the total credit point value of both the degree and the major in order to graduate; this may require that additional units are taken, either as part of the major or as General Electives. To accommodate students impacted by this change, up to 2 credit points from the total credit point value of the degree (incorporating the major) may be waived. For further information, see https://myanswers.custhelp.com/app/answers/detail/a_id/1017/

Part I - 24 credit points

Foundation Unit - 3 credit points

From 2014, Foundation units will no longer be offered at the Murdoch Campus. Students who have not yet successfully completed a Foundation unit will be required to enrol in the following Transition Unit.
