Employment Prospects:

The skill set of a graduate of the combined Bachelor of Criminology / Bachelor of Global Security will be particularly attractive to police services at both State and Commonwealth level both as officers and as professional staff - increasingly significant proportion of police and security forces (such as the Australian Federal Police and the Australian Border Force), intelligence organisations (such as the Office of National Assessments) and the defence forces consist of analysts, strategists, forensic specialists, IT specialists, negotiators and the like. Such organisations are actively engaged in seeking a wide range of graduates with particular forms of expertise able to analyse the world; anticipate change; and strengthen outcomes for Australia. (See the ONA at <https://www.ona.gov.au/>) There are also career opportunities with State government Attorneys General / Justice agencies, corrections and parole agencies, Commonwealth public sector departments such as Attorney General, the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade, and also business, journalism and the media.
